Finally! I added this place to my 'to try' list a few weeks ago and was able to go this past Friday with friends. First off...all the reviews on how great this place was were all spot on! Love at first sip...-D

From the moment we walked in, we were warmly welcomed by the staff. I had read the reviews and explored their website so I had an idea of what to expect...and I was not disappointed. The set up was easy to figure out with the nice array of wines to taste...last Friday they featured various wines from Italy. I'm not at all a wine connoisseur but I do know what I like when I taste it. The host serving the wine was very patient to explain the different labels and made great recommendations that fit my party's taste.
